To the Parents of the Classes of 2023, 2024 and 2025:

Greetings! If you can believe it, we are now at the mid-way point of the school year. With that in mind, the counseling department is turning its attention towards course selection and schedule building for the 2022-2023 school year. Below is a timeline of the course selection process. This timeline will allow us the opportunity to work with students to address any conflicts or issues before they return in September.

Teachers will make recommendations and the school counselors will be meeting with students to review the recommendations, approve courses and select electives starting in late March. As parents you will have the opportunity to review the recommendations as well. Please note that any requested overrides will require a parent conversation with the department chair and if approved, students will be required to remain in that course until the end of the first semester.

We also invite you to check out the district's initiative called College and Career Connections. This visual aid was developed to support the work done by the school staff in helping students with researching and identifying post-secondary goals. Please take the time to explore this document as a resource of the courses we offer and which courses can provide the opportunity to explore studies in career areas of interest. The Program of Studies also provides information about graduation and credit requirements, course levels, grade point average, and advanced placement course options. Both documents can be found under the 'Academics' section on the Oliver Ames school website.

You can access your student's course requests and recommendations together with them through their X2 portal or through your own parent portal. We look forward to working with you during this process and welcome any questions you may have.

Sincerely,

Kelly Cavanaugh
Principal

Sincerely,

Susan Mancuso
Director of School Counseling
